Study in Arizona, USA, for a rewarding career in the field of sustainable development

Climate change and environmental degradation. Food scarcity and epidemic disease. Entrenched poverty and social exclusion. Refugee displacement and forced migration. The world is full of stubborn challenges and fierce inequalities. Do you want a career where you can make a difference in your home country or around the world?

As a student in the University of Arizona (UA) Master’s in Development Practice (MDP) Program, you’ll gain the knowledge, insights, skills, and experiences to work in the demanding but rewarding field of sustainable development. Our 22-month program combines natural resources, social justice, public health, social sciences, and management training. The program also features an intensive summer Field Practicum at a global location to be determined by you and your advisors, including at US sites such as Washington DC or New York City.

Graduates of the UA MDP are employed in countries around the world, and throughout the U.S., with large non-governmental organizations (NGOs), private businesses, international institutions, grassroots communities, consulting groups, and governments at the national, regional, and local levels.

THE UA MDP IS CURRENTLY ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS FOR ADMISSION TO BEGIN STUDIES IN AUGUST 2020

Final deadline for international students is May 1, 2020

To learn more, visit: GlobalMDP.arizona.edu and click on “Admissions” and also contact us at MDPAdmissions@email.arizona.edu
FACTS FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

The University of Arizona (UA) is located in the city of Tucson (about one million people in the area) in the state of Arizona, located in the beautiful Southwest region. Tucson is a multicultural and welcoming city less than a day’s travel from sites including California, the Grand Canyon, Las Vegas, and the international border with Mexico. To view an aerial tour of the campus and of Tucson, visit: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=V51WsSTAsE4

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT SERVICES » UA has a wide range of student services designed to help our international students (and their families) feel at home in Tucson and successful in the classroom.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE » With nearly 45,000 students, UA is a major research university, with lower costs than many comparable schools. It has many outstanding programs relating to Development Practice, including in environmental studies, public health, business, and natural resources.

UA SAFETY SERVICES » The security of our students is guarded by numerous University of Arizona safety teams, designed to provide a safe and inclusive atmosphere on campus.

CAMPUS AMENITIES » Students have access to numerous entertainment venues, places to eat and recreation activities both on campus and nearby in downtown Tucson. There are over 600 student organizations.

DIVERSITY » The University of Arizona is dedicated to providing diverse, accessible, and engaging environments that inspire student success and inclusiveness. Tucson is home to many people from different countries, religion, races, ethnic groups, and other backgrounds.

To learn more about the University of Arizona experience for graduate students from outside the US, visit: https://grad.arizona.edu/international-students